Course Description

This course examines contemporary public discourses suggesting that Northern Hemisphere societies are moving towards secular and presumably progressive positions, whilst North Africa and the Middle-East are portrayed as sites of virtually eternal religious conflict. In exploring the relationship between church, religion and state, this course will evaluate a comprehensive range of thematic approaches in the politics of religion. Where evidence, both current and historical, suggests a relationship between religion and morality, this course will review how religious morality informs the politics of the state, and how some societies are moving towards popular and populist notions of civic morality. Through the contrast between civic and religious morality, students will explore case studies in different countries on issues such as homosexuality, contraceptives, abortion, legitimate and illegitimate violence, the role of women in society, and the significance of rational thought in the sciences.

Learning Objectives

By the end of the course, students will be in a position to:

• Critically evaluate readings from the course
• Independently source and verify additional and relevant sources of information
• Develop and deliver complex arguments on highly sensitive issues
• Articulate the distinction between morality and religion
• Improve academic writing and presentation skills
• Enhance intercultural awareness and communication competencies

Course Prerequisites

None

Methods of Instruction
Among other techniques, the methodology used throughout this course will include: teacher presentations with student-teacher dialogue and discussion; active discussion in which students will be expected to prepare presentations to argue a specific case and defend it to an opponent and the class. Students will also attend site visits, special events, and guest lectures. They are expected to take copious notes of readings, lectures and out-of-class activities to be potentially used for course submissions. Rules for citation and referencing apply.

Course Requirements

Case Studies (x 2)
Each student is required to participate twice in a prepared debate on the role of politics in religion, based on selected case studies. The individual debates will be in groups each given a topic. Grading will be based on knowledge and preparation demonstrated in the in-class debate.

Presentation
Students will be required to deliver a presentation during the course. Each presentation should be about 10-15 minutes (excluding opponent and class discussion) and it should show a good understanding of a selected topic and the ability to put it in perspective. The topic should be presented in a concise yet comprehensive manner.

Midterm Exam
The midterm exam will consist of multiple-choice and short answer / paragraph questions to measure the students' progress halfway through the course.

Final Paper
A 1,500-word discussion paper will be required. This paper will cover a specific topic and needs to show a solid understanding of and reflection on the topic assigned. The topic cannot be the same as the presentation topic.

Class Participation
Participation is valued as meaningful contribution in the digital and tangible classroom, utilizing the resources and materials presented to students as part of the course. Meaningful contribution requires students to be prepared in advance of each class session and to have regular attendance. Students must clearly demonstrate they have engaged with the materials as directed, for example, through classroom discussions, online discussion boards, peer-to-peer feedback (after presentations), interaction with guest speakers, and attentiveness on co-curricular and outside-of-classroom activities.

Class Attendance

Regular class attendance is required throughout the program, and all unexcused absences will result in a lower participation grade for any affected CIEE course. Due to the intensive schedules for Open Campus and Short Term programs, unexcused absences that constitute more than 10% of the total course will result in a written warning.

Students who transfer from one CIEE class to another during the add/drop period will not be considered absent from the first session(s) of their new class, provided they were marked present for the first session(s) of their original class. Otherwise, the absence(s) from the original class carry over to the new class and count against the grade in that class.

For CIEE classes, excessively tardy (over 15 minutes late) students must be marked absent. Attendance policies also apply to any required co-curricular class excursion or event, as well as to Internship, Service Learning, or required field placement. Students who miss class for personal travel, including unforeseen delays that arise as a result of personal travel, will be marked as absent and unexcused. No make-up or re-sit opportunity will be provided.

Attendance policies also apply to any required class excursion, with the exception that some class excursions cannot accommodate any tardiness, and students risk being marked as absent if they fail to be present at the appointed time.

Unexcused absences will lead to the following penalties:

NOTE: this schedule is subject to change at the discretion of the instructor to take advantage of current experiential learning opportunities.

Week 1
Introduction: Religion in Our Societies

Reading:
Bruce, S. Politics and Religion

Week 2

Class 2.1
Religion, Empires, and Colonialism
This module of the course examines the role of the Christian churches during the development of European empires in the American, Asian, and African continents. The module will explore the Crusades, and the fermenting of a violent relationship between faiths in the Middle East, whilst also exploring how religious obligation was used as the justification of colonization in the Americas and Africa.

Readings:
Bruce, S. Politics and Religion

Carson, P. An imperial dilemma: The propagation of Christianity in early colonial India

Porter, A. Religion and Empire: British Expansion in the Long Nineteenth Century, 1780–1914

Class 2.2
Migration and Faith
This module explores the history of migration based upon religious conflict, social subjugation, and pilgrimage. Examples for analysis will be historical and current, and present examples from throughout the world focusing on the impact on communities and economies at the departure and arrival stages of religious migration.

Readings:
Yang, F. & Ebaugh, H.R. “Transformations in New Immigrant Religions and Their Global Implications”

Week 3:
Class 3.1 Religion and the Nation-state
In this module students will explore the relationship between religion and the nation-state through a historical examination of the connections between church and state in Europe and beyond.

Readings:
Bruce, S. Politics and Religion

Ibenwa, C.N. Religion and Nation Building: A Critical Analysis

Class 3.2 Religion, Ritual, and Society
Following from the previous module, this module deconstructs ritual in contemporary societies, with particular emphasis on religious-inferred rituals surrounding public commemorations, and the operating religious-inspired rituals of modern governments and parliaments.

Readings:
Turner, V. The Forest of Symbols, Cornell University Press (selected readings)

Site Visit: The British Humanist Association

Midterm Exam

Week 4
Class 4.1 Religious Politics
In this module students will examine case studies from throughout the world, wherein political systems engage in support or opposition (or a blend of both) with religious dogma. Students will examine circumstances where overt religious rhetoric was present in the political discourse, and examples, such as the New Labour years under British Prime Minister Tony Blair, where religious discourse was intentionally avoided by government. Students will also examine case studies where the private lives of politicians impacted how the public viewed the moral standing of the public.
representative, and consider what impact religious dogma had in these circumstances.

Readings:
Bruce, S. Politics and Religion

Clements, B. and Spencer, N. Voting and Values in Britain: Does religion count?

Tessler, M. “Islam and Democracy in the Middle East: The Impact of Religious Orientations on Attitudes toward Democracy in Four Arab Countries”

Site Visit: Organised religion: The Science Museum of London

Class 4.2  Religion and Representation
In this module students will discuss the representation of religions in the public sphere. Representation analyses will evaluate concurrently the level and impact of the political representation of religions, both predominant and minority religions, in society whilst also examining the public representation of religions in the mediascape and social media.

Reading:
“House of Lords: Religious Representation”, House of Lords Library Note

“Religious Representatives in the House of Lords”, British Humanist Association

Presentations Due

Week 5  Class 5.1  Religion and Public Morality
This module examines case studies of key debates surrounding a number of sensitive issues in contemporary society, including abortion rights, contraceptives, and state-sanctioned executions.
